Item on the "Correo Insurrecto" stamp Edifil No.1, issued by the Government of the Cuban Republic at Arms in 1874 to raise funds for the Cuban independence movement. The article indicates that these stamps were being reported in the philatelic press of the time as bogus items. In fact these stamps were indeed used privately to frank mail between revolutionary parties, but because of their compromising nature, correspondence bearing them was mostly destroyed after receipt. The Edifil catalog indicates that 100,000 of these stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Company. For additional information on these stamps see <BILL6400>, pp.189-190; <EDIFIL9700>, p.41; <EDIFIL0200>, p.74-75; <ROBEP8803>, pp.7-12.

This is a detailed account of the Cuban Postal Rocket Experiment by the man who is considered to be the "father" of the experiment for his concerted efforts to carry it through completion. It describes how the project was conceived and embraced by the Philatelic Club of the Republic of Cuba, how financial support was obtained, how support from the Cuban Postal Administration was arranged to include the issuing of a special commemorative stamp for the ocassion (Scott C39), and describes the three trial launches, and the final launch of the postal rocket carrying a small amount of mail.

Letters of Nov 15 and Dec 4 to Héctor Juárez Figueredo
Unpublished, in my library, courtesy of Mark Piper, 2 pp., Span.
Two one-page letters from Terry to Juárez Figueredo on the subject of four unofficial commemorative overprints. The first one is only identified as "los sellos del Cardenal" (the Cardinal's stamps) and was applied on Cuban stamps identified as Guerra catalog #548-549. The second overprint mentioned commemorated the withdrawal of the Russian missiles during the October 1963 missile crisis. The third overprints mentioned are some 1956 unofficial overprints from an expedition by some university students trying to reclaim Cayo Sal for Cuba. Finally, the letters refer to an overprint on Guerra catalog stamp #776 commemorating the 30th anniversary of the Cuban postal rocket experiment of 1939. [Note that the letters refer to these overprints as "sobrecargas" or surcharges since the term is frequently indistinctively applied to both overprints and surcharges in Spanish.]

El Correo Aéreo en Cuba--Contribución a la Historia de la Aeronáutica y el Correo Aéreo en Cuba
(The Airmail Service in Cuba--Contribution to the History of Aeronautics and the Airmail Service in Cuba)
La Habana, Cuba: Ministerio de Comunicaciones (Department of Communications), Museo Postal Cubano (Cuban Postal Museum), Feb 1971, 292 pp., sparsely illustrated, in Spanish.
The most complete history available of the development of aeronautics and the airmail service in Cuba by the foremost student and researcher of the subject. The book starts with a general history of the development of world aeronautics and the history of Cuban interest and participation in these developments, initially consisting of baloon flights and later the initial steps of aviation with experimental or test flights and later the establishment of regular national and international air routes, many prompted by the interest of postal authorities to make use of airplanes for the transportation mail. The sections on Cuban aerophilately start with the use of pigeon mail during the wars of independence, continue with accounts of Cuban experimental flights, and finish with the history of the establishment and expansion of national and international airmail.
The sections of the book with aerophilatelic content are the following:
Un correo aéreo en la manigua libertadora (An air mail service in the countryside during the independence wars)
Tres precursores de la aviación cubana (Three pioneers of Cuban aviation)
Primeros vuelos y correos aéreos nacionales (First flights and national air posts)
Primer correo aéreo Cienfuegos—Habana (First air mail service: Cienfuegos—Habana)
Primeros vuelos y correos transoceánicos (First transoceanic flights and air mail services)
Primeros años de la aviación cubana (First years of Cuban aviation)
Primera demostración de aviación de alta escuela (First demonstration of high-level aviation training)
Primeras compañias de transporte aéreo (First air transport companies)

The article touches into the many problems created when a portrait or photo of the person to be depicted on a stamp is not known. Two such instances in Cuban philately are discussed: one is Scott 387 showing Christopher Columbus, of whom no official portrait is known; the other is Scott 402 depicting the Cuban poet Gabriel de la Concepción Valdés ("Plácido") of whom no picture seemed to be available until at the last minute one was found.

Cuba: Revolutions and Their Impact on Its Philately
Color photocopy of the collection first exhibited by Mr. Thompson at the WESTPEX 2005 Stamp Show held at the San Francisco Airport Marriott Hotel April 15-17, 2005. This is a subsequent revised version of that exhibit dated February 2006, consisting of 80 pages.

Quoting from the exhibit's introductory page: The purpose of the exhibit is to show the impact of revolutions on Cuban philately over the years. The exhibit uses covers, stamps, blocks, proofs, errors, forgeries, etc. to present the story. A chronological sequence grouped by specific revolutionary events is used (the links take you to color copies of each part):

Part 1:

- 1860's – Revolutions Ouside Cuba
- 1868-1878 Ten Years War
- Insurrection of 1895

Part 2:

- United States Occupation and Administration
- Puerto Príncipe Provisional Issue
- United States Issues Overprinted

Part3:

- 1917 – "La Chambelona" Issue
- 1933 – Machado Overthrow
- 1959 – Castro Revolution

Account of the different places where Cuba's U.S. Military Postal Station No.1 was located following the movement of the American troops as they advanced on Cuban soil in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba until they finally took over the city. The title of this article incorrectly states that Military Station No.1 was "Santiago de Cuba" instead of just simply "Cuba" as shown in the initial postal markings of Military Station No.1. The more generic designation "Cuba" was probably initially used to refer to the island in general and was later changed to "Santiago de Cuba" when Military Station No.1 was finally located in that city. Nevertheless, the article is an excellent account of the history of the initial days of Military Station No.1 and illustrates the covers posted as it moved from the town of Daiquirí, to the town of Siboney, and finally to the city of Santiago de Cuba.

<THORNE0702> Thorne, William

William Thorne Collection. Puerto Príncipe, Panama, Canal Zone, and Coamo.
New York: J. C. Morgenthau & Co.; February 14, 1907, Auction Catalog; ill. Also listed as <MORGE90702>.

The Thorne collection of Puerto Príncipe surcharged stamps was "considered the best in America" according to an article reporting the results of the sale in the New York Times (see <NYT0702>). The sale featured great Puerto Príncipe rarities, many from the Andreini collection, with the highlight being lot #40, a 5c on 5m Puerto Príncipe orange-brown pair with a faint double surcharge (Scott 188b-189b). [With regards to lot #40, see also <MORGE90612> where a single copy had been previously offered as being "unique"]. The sale also contained many items from the H. J. Mandel collection (see <MAND0604>) and Olney collection which remains unidentified.

"Cuba: A provisional revolutionary stamp"
SMJ, Vol.15, No.8, WNo.176, Oct 1934, p.179, ill.
Note about a political propaganda label of the political party of the "Auténticos" (Partido Revolucionario Cubano—Cuban Revolutionary Party) that was apparently used to frank a letter and passed through the postal service unnoticed or through complicity of some postal workers sympathetic with the political party. The slogan on the label reads "Si eres Cubano, haste Auténtico" and is incorrectly literally translated in the piece as "If you are Cuban make yourself a real one!" when the intended meaning was "If you are Cuban, become a member of the Auténticos party"—although there was an intended play of words with the literal translation.

SMJ, Vol.16, No.5, WNo.185, Jul 1935, p.164.
Item on the 1935 Air Train issue reporting that only 35,000 were printed and that they were put on sale without warning at 7 a.m. in the morning (April 24) in various places in the island and that by noon all had been sold.
In the same piece it is indicated that lines had formed at the post offices on the day of their sale long before 7 a.m. which contradicts the statement that there had been no advance warning of their sale—somehow the word got out.
Of the $7000 collected from the sale of the stamps, $3000 went to the aviators.

Report of the impending issue of stamps commemorating the Revolution of 1933 (Scott 332-336, C22-C23, E9) with a detailed listing of their denomination, color, number to be issued, design, and purpose (i.e., regular postage, air mail, special delivery). The note is in error as the intent of the stamps as issued was to commemorate the centennary of the birth of Independence War Major General Máximo Gómez (this error is later corrected in <THORP3612>). Additionally, some of the listed designs were different from those issued. No mention is made of the fact that the set would also be issued in imperforate form. Also see <THORP3606>.

Menéndez (this issue was apparently not realized), and Máximo Gómez (Scott 332-336, C22-C23, E9) issues and advance information on the planned 1937 Artists and Writers issue (Scott 340-354, C24-C29, E10-E11). The notes complain about the delay in the release of the Matanzas set and incorrectly state that the Máximo Gómez set will be limited to 1c and 2c values only. On the Artists and Writers issue, the author wonders how the Cuban postal service will be able to sell $625,000 worth of stamps in only the three days that they plan to make them available for sale and ventures to say that the goal won't be met.

Account of the repeat flight from Key West to Havana by Domingo Rosillo commemorating the 25th anniversary of his original record setting longest over-seas flight. The flight carried postage franked with a new stamp issue with the same design as the 5c. blue 1927 air-mail stamp (Scott C1) but in orange color with an overprint including his name (Scott C30). The report incorrectly mentions that the surcharge will read "5 x 15c, Rosillo–1913/1938" and that the surtax would be donated to Rosillo. The actual stamp issued in May 1938 did not include any surtax. See <STIL3808> and <CLAR3808> for an updated report and illustration of the actual overprint. Also report that the planned quantities of the First Centennary of the Railroad commemorative stamp (Scott 355) has been reduced from 1,700,000 to 1,240,000 which was the actual number printed.

Updated edition of <TIZO7100> considerably expanding and improving an already outstanding catalog of pre-philatelic postmarks. Profusely illustrated. As in <TIZO7100>, postal markings are illustrated in colors that roughly match the original color of the postal markings. The following information is provided for each postal marking listed: a brief description of the place of origin, including its geographical location and governmental jurisdiction, routes of communication, postal classification, population, period of use, color, and relative rarity. Pages 1113-1115 contain an alphabetical listing of all of the towns and cities from which postal markings are known. Accompanying the listing is a foldout map of the island of Cuba whose cartouche is labelled “Mapa Postal Hacia 1850, Demarcación Num.30, Isla de Cuba” (“Postal Map circa 1850, Demarcation No.30, Island of Cuba”). This map shows principal and secondary postal administrations, principal and secondary roads, and maritime routes. The listing of town postal markings go from pp.1121 to 1196. Pages 1240 to 1246 contain the postal markings of “Indias e Islas de Barlovento” (“Indies and Windward Islands”). The catalog was updated and expanded in 2004 (see <TIZO0400>).

Iniciación a la Historia del Correo en Cuba
(Introduction to the History of the Cuban Posts)
La Habana, Cuba: Ministerio de Comunicaciones (Department of Communications), Imprenta La Habanera, 1945, 485 pp., ill., Span.
One of the best histories ever written on the postal services of a country. The work consists of two parts. The first part covers the development of the posts in various parts of the ancient world to its beginnings in Cuba up to the end of the 18th Century. The second part covers the 19th Century up to the establishment of the Republic in 1902. It also contains a bibliography with more than 200 references. The book is an excellent reference for any serious research into the postal history of Cuba.

Note: Page 91 of the article is mislabeled as being from the Jan-Feb 2015 issue of PSta.
Article on UPU Specimens of Chilean postal stationery from the reference collection of the UPU which sold its holdings at some point. The article describes the way the UPU marked items in its reference collection. The editor of PSta (Wayne Menuz–see <MENU1605a>) adds a note to the article providing examples of items from the UPU reference collection from other countries. On page 93, three Cuban postal stationery specimens from UPU reference collection are illustrated: Cuba UPSS Envelope No.9 and postal cards UPSS Nos. S1 and S2.

"As I Was Saying"
WPG, Vol.42, No.6, WNo.1275, 13 Apr 1946, pp.172,183.
Report of orders from General Leonard Wood at the end of the U.S. Postal Administration of Cuba for the delivery of all supplies to the Cuban postal authorities and the accounting and destruction of all stamps by fire. Mr. Towsend speculates that many stamps were surreptitiously extracted by various parties before destruction as evidenced by their sale prices after the fact. The article goes on to report that Mr. Towsend procured large quantities of early postage due stamps at a Havana post office for U.S. dealer H. F. Colman, some of them cancelled to order. It is not clear from the article whether these "early" postage due stamps were the U.S. surcharged issues (Scott J1-J4) or early Cuban issues, but we assume they were the latter.

Outstanding sale of Cuba and Puerto Rico. In the Cuba section, the sale featured 28 lots of stampless covers, 11 lots of U.S. stamps used in Cuba (most on cover), 17 lots of British stamps used in Cuba or British postal marks on Cuban stamps, 14 lots of French stamps used in Cuba (most on cover), 55 lots of proofs and essays, 204 lots of Spanish Administration issues, 268 lots of Puerto Príncipe issues (one on cover), 14 lots of military station cancellations (all on cover), 43 lots of U.S. Administration issues, 55 lots of Republic of Cuba issues, 32 lots of airmail, special delivery, and postage due stamps, and 32 lots of postal stationery for a total of 773 lots of Cuban material. The sale also featured over 430 lots of Puerto Rican material.

<TP> Le Timbre-Poste
Journal du Collectionneur (Collector's Journal)
Brussels, Belgium: Published by Jean-Baptiste Moens, Négociant en Timbres-Poste (Stamp Dealer), from 1863-1899, in French. Digitized copies of the journal from 1863-1899 can be found at the following Internet address:
https://library.si.edu/digital-library/book/timbre-poste-et-le-timbre-fiscal Eventually, a journal of revenue stamps (le timbre fiscal) was appended to the stamp journal.

Quoting Wikipedia: Le Timbre-Poste was the first French language philatelic magazine. It was published by Jean-Baptiste Moens of Brussels from 1863 to 1900. Le Timbre Fiscal was included as a supplement from volume 17 of 1879 and incorporated from January 1897 when the whole was renamed Le Timbre-Poste et Le Timbre Fiscal.[1] After Moens retired in 1900 it was discovered that his brother-in-law, Louis Hanciau, had actually been responsible for most of the literary content of Le Timbre-Poste.

<TRAV9812> Travers, Arthur M.
"The Travers Papers: Cuba Stamps and Stamped Envelopes"
Downloaded from the website of the U.S. Philatelic Classics Society, 22-23 Nov 2013.
When Congress mandated a reduction in the cost of storage and the Post Office Department prepared for a massive destruction of documents in 1907, philatelist Arthur M. Travers conceived a plan to systematically select, transcribe, and preserve the original documents relating to the production of United States stamps. As Chief Clerk to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, the official responsible for stamp production and distribution since 1847, Travers had access to all the official records and correspondence. By 1910, he had located all the significant Post Office documents related to US stamps between 1847 and 1873 and prepared a manuscript for publication. Included in the batch of preserved documents were documents pertaining to the stamps and envelopes sent to Cuba by the U.S. Postal Administration from December 1898 to March 1904. The whereabouts of these papers was unknown until they were discovered in the mid 1990s. They have now been scanned and are posted in the website of the U.S. Philatelics Classics Society.
Following are links to the Cuba portion of the Travers Papers:

TRAV-Stamps--Dec-1898	TRAV-Stamps--Jan-Aug-1899	TRAV-Stamps--Jan-Dec-1901
TRAV-Stamps--Jan-Aug-1902	TRAV-Stamps--Sep1903-Mar1904
TRAV-Env--Jan-Sep-1899	TRAV-Env--Jan-Dec-1901	TRAV-Env--Jan-Oct-1902

The year 1900 is missing from both the Stamps and Envelopes Cuba section of the Travers Papers.

"How Was Cuban Mail Dispatched on 1930 Inaugural of FAM 5 Express to Panama?"
APJ, Vol.58, No.9, WNo.685, Jun 1987; pp.286-289,294 (5); ill.
The article analyzes a cover showing a Havana-Miami-Pánama routing for the inaugural FAM 5 Express flight piloted by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on 26 April 1930. This routing is contrary to the previously believed direct Havana-Pánama routing for the inaugural FAM 5 Express flight, but seems plausible due to the lack of an airmail contract between the Cuban post office department and Pan Am to transport FAM 5 airmail southbound out of Havana. Only 2 ounces of mail (approximately 10-12 covers) was dispatched from Cuba on the inaugural FAM 5 Express flight making these AAMC Cuba No.8 FFCs very rare. Corroboration of the routing of this first flight is pending the reporting of another one of the covers carried on the flight. See <TYX9901> for a reprint and translation into Spanish.

"Temporary Cuban Airstation and Post Office 'Hicacal' at Guantánamo Naval Base Sept. 22, 1934-Oct. 15, 1934"
VAM, Vol.I, No.6, Jun 1987, pp.3-5 (3), ill. See <TYX9003> for reprint and Spanish translation.
While squadrons of U.S. Pacific and Atlantic fleets participated in combined fleet exercises in the Caribbean with Guantánamo Naval Base as home port, a temporary Cuban airmail branch named "Hicacal" was authorized to expedite fleet mail to Guantánamo city where mail was subsequently loaded on a Pan Am mail plane bound for Havana. The article shows an illustration of a first flight cover (AAMC Cuba No.25) originating at "Hicacal" and flown from Guantánamo to Havana by the Pan Am mail plane on Sept. 22, 1934.

Unpublished, available through the courtesy of Mr. Tyx; 3 pp. plus 8 pp. of attachments; illustrated.
Letter thanking Mr. Valdés for a copy of <FRIC8906> on the subject of U.S. postal stationery overprinted for use in Cuba during the U.S. Administration that is later used to pay postage in the U.S. The letter cites two examples from Mr. Tyx's collection (UPSS-1 and UPSS-6) and is accompanied by their photocopies. A discussion of the validity of using such stationery in the U.S. is included with some plausible explanations provided. Another copy of a UPSS-6 sent by F.S. Smith to the J.W.Scott Co. is mentioned and a photocopy is included. Finally, the letter mentions the recent acquisition of a mint copy of Cuba's H&G E-3 newspaper wrapper--one of the rarest pieces of Cuban postal stationery!--and includes a photocopy. Unpublished four-page letter and attachments.
The letter is prompted by receiving news from Bob Spooner that the judges at the SESCAL 2000 stamp show had knocked his exhibit down a level from previous awards received at other stamp shows with the excuse that it did not follow the listings in the American Air Mail Catalog (ASMC). In his letter Mark lists some suggestions to improve his exhibit's synopsis and overall presentation. The fourth page of the letter includes a listing of various early flights and the number of FFCs known from each flight. Additional information provided in the letter are several references about the creation of some F4-4 counterfeit covers discussed in <NAHL7102> and in other supporting documentation. The letter ends with clippings from the Cuban Diario de la Marina newspaper with details about the Aeromarine West Indies first flight from Key West to Havana and its return flight (<DMAR2011a> and <DMAR2011b>).

The letter is acknowledgment of receipt from Bob Spooner of a letter and associated photocopies Bob had received from air mail postal history dealer Heinz Gappe offering Bob an assortment of Cuban postal history items at exhorbitant prices (see <GAPP0101>). In his letter Mark relates to Bob his personal experience with Mr. Gappe, indicating that all of his offerings have also been at exhorbitant prices. Mark's letter continues to let Bob know of his recent interest in air mail labels and send Bob two references on the subject, the 1991 Gunter Mair Airmail Catalog (<MAIR9100>), and a November 1985 article by Rafael García on the same subject (<GARC8511). "E-mail from Mr. Tyx to Mr. Michael Kess re Roessler Cuban first flight covers"
Unpublished copy of correspondence in Ernesto Cuesta's files.

The short note identifies the earliest Roessler Cuba related covers as being those of the 1 November 1920 first flight covers flown by Aeromarine West Indies Airways between Key West and Havana (AAMC-F4-1). The note continues to say that Mr. Roessler continued preparing Cuban FFCs during the late 1920s and early 1930s, stopping by 1932, probably due to the worldwide economic depression and legal problems with the U.S. Post Office Department over his activities. Reference is made in the note to a brief account of Roessler's philatelic business activities published by Linn's in 2003. The note also mentions that there is a reprint of Roessler's cover catalog edited by Mike Mellone. Look for other Roessler references in this bibliography's Index.

The Postal Stationery of the United States Possessions and Administrative Areas of the United States: American Zone (Germany) Canal Zone, Cuba, Danish West Indies, Hawaii, Philippines, Puerto Rico, Ryukyu Islands.
Chester, Virginia: United Postal Stationery Society, Third Edition, 2009, 210 pp., ill. George Krieger, Editor.
Contributors to the Cuba Section were Ernesto Cuesta, Octavio Cabrera, Robert Littrell, and Mark Tyx.
Library of Congress Control Number: 2009935307.

Third edition of the catalog first published by the society in 1957 under the editorship of George C. Slawson (see <UPSS5700>) and updated in 1971 with a second edition (see <UPSS7100>). This third edition is a considerable update and improvement over the second edition that only dedicated five and a half pages to Cuba versus 24 full pages in the third edition.
The catalog is printed on 8.5 by 11 in. spiral-bound pages and consists of an introductory and General Information section with pages numbered i to vi (6), followed by the various catalog sections of the Possessions and Administrative Areas of the United States on pages 1 to 190, followed in turn by an Appendix illustrating paper watermarks and knives and sizes on pages numbered 191 to 212 (20).
The Cuba Section itself is on pages 61-74 (24). The catalog section provides an overview of Cuban history with emphasis on the Spanish-American War and the ensuing U.S. Administration period and a discussion of the postage rates of the period. The body of the catalog describes the envelopes, postal cards, and wrappers issued for Cuba during the U.S. Administration period with detailed descriptions of each issue, including varieties, errors, specimens, and samples. Details are provided of envelope sizes, knives, paper color, paper watermarks, corner cards, quantities issued or known (in the case of errors, specimens, samples, corner cards, rare usages, etc.), earliest recorded postmarks, and postmarks used.

Reply to <HEST2104> indicating that George Sioras in Part IV of <SIOR8206> reported that he had completed an informal census of F4-1 flown covers determining that around 500 such covers were flown. The article also makes reference to dual US and Cuban franking on covers prepared by W. W. Wilson, a prolific servicer of FFCs and illustrates one of such covers, similar to the one shown in <HEST2104>.

"A Previously Unreported NY-10 Variety: Rio de Janeiro – Havana 2/19/30
Unpublished two-page article plus one-page illustration.
The article postulates that an ad for a NYRBA AAMC NY-10 cover that states that is was flown from Rio de Janeiro to Havana via Miami was incorrectly described as such. Instead the cover must have been delivered to Havana late on February 26 on the way of the NYRBA flight to Miami where it arrived the same day. The author correctly surmises that the February 27 backstamp on the cover must have been due to the fact that the cover arrived in Havana late on February 26 and was not backstamped until the following day. The cover is also illustrated on p.38 of <SARR1810a> and is listed as Item No. 1930.ff.3.
