In presenting this feature of the S.C.A. for the current year, it affords us considerable gratification to be able to include the principal contents of a large number of the leading Continental and foreign stamp journals, in addition to having considerably extended the ground covered in those published in the English language.

The Philatelic Literary Index for 1910-11 may therefore be regarded as a practically complete guide to the most important articles published in the philatelic journals of the world during the past twelve months. A total of 68 papers have been indexed as against 23 in the last edition, and the Index contains over 1000 references, rendering it the largest and most comprehensive that has been presented. No effort has been spared to ensure the complete accuracy of the list, and its value to the student philatelist cannot be over-estimated.

Only articles of a permanent reference value have been included, those of a purely topical or ephemeral nature having been disregarded. There is only a single entry in the Index for each article, cross references having been avoided, and in every instance the articles are indexed under the countries or subjects to which they refer without regard to fanciful titles.

The plan followed in listing articles is substantially the same as that adopted in previous editions, but a few typographical improvements have been introduced with a view to facilitating easy reference.

A full table of abbreviations employed in referring to the various periodicals is printed above, together with a key to the volumes indexed.

Roman figures are employed to denote volume numbers, and ordinary Arabic numerals to indicate the page on which a particular article will be found. Thus "L.P. XIX, 54" signifies "London Philatelist," Volume Nineteen, page 54.

In the case of journals which are not divided into volumes, we only quote the current number of the issue, and the same method has been adopted where there is no pagination.

The German philatelic press has been indexed by Mr. Victor Weinert, of Pozsony, Hungary, and his references are entirely by years, instead of volumes. In these cases the key given above will be of assistance.

The period covered by the present Index is from October, 1910, to the end of September, 1911, inclusive, and it will be found to include all articles of value published in the World's Philatelic Press during that time.
