"Correo Marítimo de Cuba con el exterior, Siglo XVIII hasta 1871 (final de las empresas mercantes)"

("International Maritime Mails of Cuba, 17th Century to 1870 (end of the mercantile enterprises)")

Teruel, Spain: Collection entered at the EXFILNA 2023 Spanish national philatelic exhibition held in Teruel from 19 to 23 of April 2023, where it obtained the Grand Award of the exhibition. The collection is organized so as to form a detailed specialized chronological catalog of the international maritime mails of Cuba starting with the establishment of the "Correos Marítimos del Estado" ("Maritime Mails of Spain") by Royal Decree in 1764. Maritime mails continued under control of the Naval Ministry of Spain, up to the appearance of mercantile enterprises handling commerce with Havana in 1827. Thereafter, numerous other commercial ventures surged and evolved through 1871, ending in 1877 with the establishment of the Universal Postal Union (UPU). The introductory page of the exhibition provides a detailed overview of the contents of the collection.

("The Mystery of Mark No.9 of the Maritime Mail Company")

EcoFN, Yr.79, No.1330, Jul-Aug 2023, front cover and pp.26-27 (3), ill., Span.

Article about a folded letter with an oval marking reading "Correo Marítimo No.9" ("Maritime Mail No.9") designating Ship No.9 of the Spanish Maritime Mail Company as the ship that carried it to Cuba. Since no other examples of mail bearing this marking had been reported, its authenticity had been questioned. However, in the article the author reproduces an official report from the port of Cádiz in southern Spain, dated Sunday, 28 May 1848, that clearly indicates that a ship of the Maritime Mail Company designated as "Correo Marítimo No.9" departed on that day for the Canary Islands, Puerto Rico, and Havana, confirming the authenticity of the folded letter bearing the "Correo Marítimo No.9" mark. The article is followed by an email I sent Mr. Macarrón with some questions about some of the other markings on the cover and its routing from its point of origin to its destination and the reply that I received from him.

Overview of the Special Delivery Service in Cuba from its inception during the U.S. Administration and into the Cuban Republican period. The article shows two covers bearing the initial U.S. special delivery stamp (Scott E1) known in Cuba as the "Mensajero Azul" ("Blue Messenger") generated by surcharging a U.S. Scott E5 in red. Two other covers are shown and described with Cuba Scott E2 ("IMMEDIATA" spelling error) and Scott E3 with the corrected Spanish spelling "INMEDIATA". Four additional special delivery covers are shown and described with subsequent special delivery stamps of the Cuban Republican period. The article ends by showing four different special delivery cancellations used in processing special delivery mail during the Republican period.

CPa, Vol. 25, No.70, Jan-Apr 2014, pp.8-9 (2), ill., Eng. & Span. See <MALL1405> for a follow-up.

The word "coils" in parenthesis at the end of the Spanish version of the article's title after the phrase "Sellos Sin Perforación Horizontal" is a misnomer since the word "coils" refers to stamps sold in a roll whereas the Cuban imperforate stamps referenced in this article were printed in sheets of 400 stamps separated into four sheets of 100 stamps each separated by a blank gutter. Additionally, the use of the word "and" in the title is misleading since the Cuban patriot stamps of 1926 and the "horizontally imperforate stamps" were one and the same. The article indicates that these imperforate stamps were perhaps intended to be assembled into coils for dispensing to the public in machines, but the humidity in the island foiled the project since the stamps stuck together when assembled into rolls. The article also indicates that perforations on some of these stamps have been determined to have been applied privately.

the imposition of the postal orders in the postal rates paid. The article describes how at first the postal orders only applied to the U.S. troops and government officials, and subsequently, starting on April 1, 1899, applied to the rest of the country. The article indicates that there are two types of these cards, and illustrates and describes the small differences between them. Due to the high face value of the Scott 283 stamp, its use on circulated letters was very limited, and the surplus stamps were surcharged 10c. on two later occasions. The first was to commemorate the inauguration of national airmail service in 1930 (Scott C3), and the second in 1937 for the centennial of the railroad in Cuba (Scott 355).

(“Special Delivery Service for Correspondence in Cuba”)

FDCW, CUBAFIL'23 Virtual Exhibition, 22-30 Apr 2023. Five-frame exhibit, in Spanish, presented for the first time at CUBAFIL'23.

The exhibit is divided into two sections. The first section covers the domestic special delivery service that was initiated by the U.S. Administration Postal Service in Cuba on 16 May 1899 and continued during the early period of the Republic. The second section deals with the extension of the special delivery service with the United States that was inaugurated on 1 November 1926 and continued until the first years of the Cuban Revolution of 1959.

The exhibit shows both the use of special delivery stamps and regular postage stamps to pay for the service and explains the applicable rates applicable throughout both periods.

This sale consisted of five large lots; the first four were the bulk of the Prats collection; the fifth lot was not part of the Prats collection and its source is unknown. The auction catalog illustrated only the highlights of each lot—just the tip of the iceberg of what each lot contained as this was one of the best collections of Cuba ever assembled (over a period of more than 40 years).

Following is a brief description of each lot.

Lot 1: Spanish Antilles; estimated at 600-800K, sold for 500K +15% commission to an unknown buyer;

Lot 2: Puerto Príncipe; est. at 200-300K, sold for 240K + 15% to Jack Thompson & Yamil Kouri;

Lot 3: U.S. Administration; est. at 125-150K, sold for 120K + 15% to an unknown buyer;

Lot 4: Republic of Cuba; est. at 200-300K, sold for 260K + 15% to Patrick Mangan;

Lot 5: Cuba Imperforates and Proofs; est. at 100-150K, did not sell.

See <PRAT0702>, <PRAT0704>, <PRAT0911a>, <PRAT0911b>, and <PRAT1005> for subsequent sales/resales of material from the Prats collections. This article is a follow-up to <CUES9807b> correcting some errors in the previous article and listing additional examples of these numbered datestamps obtained from various cited sources. The article points to the existence of examples of these datestamps going back as far as 1881, but this fact is disputed by the CPa Editor who points out that if that were so, surely they would have been used first in Havana, but no such examples are known to exist. Since publication of the article I have developed an inventory of these cancellations in my FILACUBA Website at the following address: <http://www.philat.com/FIL/NCDS/NCDS-Archive.html> (also listed in this bibliography under <CUES-NCDS>). Numerous additions to the towns reported here and in the original article have been identified and several of the town numbers reported in this article have been corroborated, but some corrections have also surfaced. Colón has been verified to be #10, Bahía Honda is still ambiguous—either 28 or 29, #107 is definitely Guara not Guareiras which we believe is #109, and Isabel de Sagua is definitely #125—not #124.

Ernesto Cuesta

Account of the events of the first flight between Key West and Havana, won by Domingo Rosillo in competition with Agustín Parlá, on May 17, 1913. The article reports the unveiling of commemorative plaques for the flight at the airports of Key West and Miami. The article includes images of eight photographs and postcards from the time, a block of four of the 1938 commemorative stamp for the flight (Scott C30), and an envelope autographed by Rosillo. The article also contains information about Parlá's parallel flight which arrived in second place. The article ends with an overview the impact of this first flight on subsequent developments in Cuban aviation.

Analysis of examples of plate number, singles, strips, blocks (including several mini plates of 25 stamps) and full panes of Scott 221, the 1c U.S. stamp overprinted for use in Cuba. The overprinting was performed using a mini-plate of 25 stamps repeatedly to complete a full plate of 100 stamps. The analysis establishes that more than one mini-plate of 25 stamps were used to print the full panes of 100 stamps through all of the printings of the issue.

Philadelphia, PA: From the newsletter "Klein's Philatelic Offers and Notes" published by Eugene Klein in the mid 1930s, pp.66-70, ill. [Get better copy of image pages]

The title is misleading since the single booklet issued during the U.S. Administration of Cuba, Scott 228b, is not even mentioned in the article. The article covers the booklets issued by the Republic of Cuba from 1905 to 1932. The article gathers all information the author could find on each of the booklets and the booklet covers, listing them by date of issue and denomination. Printing formats and designs are discussed and many booklet covers are illustrated. No illustrations of the booklet panes themselves are provided.

Date of publication unknown, but the letter is dated 7 April 1931. We assume that the letter was published in the newspaper "El Combate" shortly thereafter. The letter announces the opening of new air mail routes by Compañía Cubana de Aviación Curtiss to the cities of Baracoa and Cayo Mambí with stops at several intervening towns that are listed in the letter.

The article reports on changes to Route No.1 adding to it the towns of Manzanillo, Bayamo, and Guantánamo effective on February 15, 1932, and the elimination of stops in the towns of Victoria de las Tunas and Holguín from the Havana-Santiago route. The article indicates that FFCs will be serviced in the post offices of Manzanillo, Bayamo, and Guantánamo on the day of the inauguration of the flights. Smithsonian Institution National Postal Museum Library Call No.HE6184.F6M53 1923. Revised and expanded version of a series of individual articles originally published in Stamp Lover. Also believed to have been reprinted by Emile Bertrand, Lucerne. The listings under Cuba discuss the revolutionary stamps of 1874 and 1896 (<EDIFILc> Correo Insurrecto stamps Nos.1 and 2-5), the 1874 "CUBA LIBRA" labels issued by the Cuban revolutionary junta in Philadelphia bearing a Cuban flag, and three unidentified overprinted stamps circa 1906 from the province of Cienfuegos. The entry questions the actual use of the 1874 and 1896 correo insurrecto stamps to frank mail, stating there is no evidence that they ever saw service in Cuba (this is incorrect; see <ROBEP8803>). A reference is also made to some other republican stamps of the same period bearing portraits of Martí, Gómez, Maceo, and García reported in the Philadelphia Inquirer (later reprinted in the Daily Stamp Item), but these remain unidentified and their actual existence and use questioned. The account of the flag labels refers to them as possible "philatelic fictions" and is basically an extract from the Englishman of Calcutta, reprinted in the Philatelic World of April 16, 1896. The extract describes the stamps, but only mentions four of the five issued and incorrectly identifies the 20 c. stamp as being black instead of brown (the missing 50 c. stamp is the black one).

Study of the postal marking "ESPAÑA", denoting place of origin, applied to all maritime mail from Spain to its West Indies by Royal Order of King Charles III of Spain in 1764. The article establishes that besides the marking devices used at the point of origin in the port of La Coruña, Spain, copies of the marking devices were sent to all points where Spanish maritime mails were handled in the Americas to so mark any mail passing through which had not been properly marked at its origin. In particular, the article establishes the existence of such a marking device in Havana from an inventory taken in 1765 by don José de Armona, administrator of posts in Havana (p.33) and describes but does not illustrate the Havana marking's characteristics (p.37).

MF, Yr.XLIX, No.562, May 1955, pp.112-113, ill., Span. Reprint of <VEGA5505>.

Article highlights two anniversaries of great significance to Cuban philately: the centenary of the first postage stamps used in Cuba and the 50th anniversary of the first set of stamps issued by the Republic of Cuba in 1905. The article describes both stamp issues and the set of stamps issued by the Cuban Ministry of Communications to commemorate the centenary of the first postage stamps (Scott 539-542, C110-C113). The article also mentions in passing the last stamp issue of the Spanish Administration known as the stamps of the "Autonomía" (autonomy) from the type of government implanted in the island during the years 1898-1899. It incorrectly states that these stamps were in circulation until the 23rd of April of 1905, when in fact these stamps were replaced by the stamps of the U.S. Administration in 1899.

Roving the Stamp World—Including comments on Foreign Government-Stamped Postal Stationery
Douglaston, Long Island, New York: Published by the author, 1933, 174 pp., ill.

In the first third of the 20th Century Mr. Michel formed a fantastic collection of worldwide postal stationery that he eventually donated in its entirety to the U.S. National Postal Museum. The Cuban portion of the collection is housed in two volumes that Mark R. Tyx and I inventoried (see <CUES8911> and <CUES9610>). This entry consists of the cover page of the book; a brief introduction by H.L. Lindquist on pages 3-5 introducing Mr. Michel; Section III of the book titled "The government-stamped stationery of the world" that is an overview by Mr. Michel of his postal stationery collection; Section V, Appendix, "Mounting and filing entires"; and the book's table of contents and index by country. Page 132 of Section III discusses the 1904 provisional 1c. post card of Cuba (H&G #38), and page 142 illustrates a Honduran postal card showing Cuba's First President, Don Tomás Estrada Palma, who was also the First Postmaster-General of Honduras.

"Cuban Postal Stationery in the A. Eugene Michel Worldwide Postal Stationery Collection"

This reference is for the Cuban portion of the A. Eugene Michel collection of Foreign Government-Stamped Postal stationery which was donated by Mr. Michel to the Nation and is now part of the U.S. National Philatelic Collection housed in the U.S. National Postal Museum, part of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. The link is to an unpublished detailed inventory of the collection prepared by Ernesto Cuesta and Mark R. Tyx (also listed in this bibliography as <CUES8600> = <TYX8600>). The collection is not on public display but may be viewed with special permission through prior appointment.

The collection consists of some 30,000 specimens mounted in 144 loose leaf volumes. This reference includes a picture of Mr. Michel sitting in his studio alongside his formidable collection (in 1933, when the photo was taken, the collection consisted of 134 volumes; but when donated to the Smithsonian in June of 1940 it consisted of 144 volumes). The volumes are arranged by countries in alphabetical order; under each country by type of stationery in the following order: government-stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers, letter cards, and postal cards; and within each category by chronological order of the date of issue, starting each issue with the lowest value.

Additional details on Mr. Michel and his postal stationery collection can be found in <MICH3300>. The Cuban portion of the collection is spread across two volumes both of which are not totally dedicated to Cuba. Published inventories of the envelopes and postal cards in the collection can be found in <CUES8911> = <TYX8911> and <CUES9610> = <TYX9610>, respectively.

MK, Vol.5, No.15, WNo.223, 11 Apr 1895, p.3.

Musings about the philatelic future of Cuba after the Spanish-American War. The author surmises there may be another stamp or set of stamps issued by the revolutionary government following the pattern of the 1874 revolutionary stamp (Edifil Correo Insurrecto No.1) which indeed was the case (see Edifil Correo Insurrecto Nos.2-5). In any case, the author suggests that philatelists should take interest in the stamps of Cuba which should increase in value if Cuba gains its independence from Spain to become a Republic or be annexed to the United States, in which case they would become of special interest to U.S. philatelists.

Letter to Mark R. Tyx with attached plate varieties of 1898 Alfonso XIII postal cards for Puerto Rico.

Unpublished, 15 typewritten pages consisting of a one page letter from Byron Mitchell to Mark R. Tyx accompanied by 14 pages illustrating and describing plate varieties on 8 Puerto Rico 1898 Alfonso XIII single cards and 4 double cards. In the letter, Mr. Mitchell is asking Mr. Tyx to verify whether the same plate defects exist in the same issue of cards for Cuba, since supposedly they were both printed from the same plate by just changing the country name in the insignia. In response to this letter, Mr. Tyx sent Mr. Mitchell copies of all of the 1898 cards in his collection, but received no feedback as he later indicated. "Philatelic Problems. No.6—What does the surcharge Y ¼ on the early issues of Cuba represent"

MK, Vol.19, No.5, WNo.736, 4 Feb 1905, p.38. Editor is listed as Henry A. Kidder.

Copy of the best answer to the question sent in by Mr. W.E. Warner correctly indicating that the Y in the surcharge corresponded to the Spanish word "Ynterior" since the service only applied to mail to be delivered inside the city of Havana and that the ¼ corresponded to the ¼ real de plata fuerte to be charged by the service. The writer's explanation that the "surcharge Y owes its origin to the Spanish script capital I which is written like the greek Y" is not quite correct. The Y was probably used instead of the I to avoid confusion with the numeral 1, and probably justified by the old spelling of the word "Interior" with an initial Y. Note that the "Correo Interior" handstamp imposed on some of the letters bearing these stamps, used the modern spelling as noted.

MK, Vol. 25, No.19, WNo.1063, 13 May 1911, p.162.

Published under the pseudonym "Merry Forest" (also listed as <MERRY1105>).

Quotes from Matanzas Filatélico (not "Filatélica" as named in the article) issues of Feb and Sep 1910. From the February issue reference to cancellations with "T" enclosed in circle (the "T" is for TASA (postage due), not TAXA as stated in the article). In the September issue, the magazine advocates the cataloging of various postal fiscals of Cuba. Reference is made to the official authorization of the use of the 1868 10c. bistre Giro stamp (Forbin Giro No.1) for franking correspondence during 1873, 1874, and 1875 and the 1881 12 1/2c. green Giro stamp (Forbin Giro No.55) for franking correspondence during 1881. Reference is also made to the issuance by Cuba of stamp booklets of 1c. and 2c. stamps in the middle of 1905 (the 2c. stamp booklet referred to is Scott 234a, but no 1c. booklet exists from that period).

"Latin American Letter--Cuba"

MK, Vol.25, No.22, WNo.1067, 10 Jun 1911, p.194.

Two notes picked up from Cuban newsprint. The first one is from the March 1911 issue of RCFC reporting on the National Philatelic Exhibition held in Habana in March 1911 for which a special concentric circles cds was issued reading "Exposición Nacional de 1911, Habana, Cuba, Servicio Postal, Estación E" and lamenting that the postal authorities didn't accompany the cancellation with a special stamp issue. The other note is from the morning edition of DMAR of May 19, 1911, reporting that special official envelopes have been provided for use by education boards in their official correspondence and asking postmasters in the island to expedite them.

Translation from a summary of the book on its back cover: "Analysis of the origins, establishment, and operation of the Postal Administration of Cartagena de Indias during the early years of its historic evolution (1764-1769). Its origins stem from the postal reform plan that developed during the second half of the 18th century under the framework of the Bourbon Reforms that were pushed in place by the Bourbons upon reaching the throne of the Spanish Empire. This study allows us to understand the use and evolution of an institution (the postal system) of the Spanish Monarchy in relation to its American Colonies in the 18th century and explains how the Bourbon Crown tried to advance its domination of these lands using the postal system as a key element of its intentions."

Downloaded from <https://journals.openedition.org/nuevomundo/71547>. Article dated 12 Nov 2017. 20 pp., Span. Quoting from an overview provided in the article: "The postal system was an essential tool to link different territories in a global space in the early modern history. In the eighteenth century, European monarchies were interested in changing the postal service to enhance the overseas communications and to exercise more effective government in their colonies. In the Spanish Monarchy, in the mid-eighteenth century, under the government of Charles III, was promoted a postal reform plan where the Crown wanted to manage and organize the maritime mails between Spain and America in order to exercise more direct control in the Latin American dominions. This article examines the project of reform of the postal system that the Bourbon monarchy planned from 1764 through 1765. The article shows how these projects of the reform, especially the postal system, had resistances not only in Peninsula but also in the Latin American territories. The findings of this research illustrate the importance of the role of the postal service for the government of the overseas empires and the limitations of their reform plans in the enlightenment."

Article is first article in the Sixth Section of Vol. II, "Sistemas de comunicación y medios de expresión" ("Communications Systems and Vehicles of Expression"), on pp.769-784 (16), in Spanish. [Need full copy of the article]

At the beginning of the 18th century, the Bourbon monarchy ascended to the throne of the Hispanic empire. The Bourbons sought to implement a project of sociopolitical and economic reorganization, aiming to centralize institutions and agencies to exercise more effective governance not only on the Iberian Peninsula but also in their overseas territories. One of the main reformist intentions of the Bourbons was the postal reform plan between the Peninsula and its American colonies, with the goal of establishing an efficient system of transatlantic communications. This was intended to ensure a more regular and fluid circulation of both information and official orders between both sides of the Atlantic. To this end, plans and projects were designed, laying the foundation for the postal reform carried out by King Charles III in 1764, which led to the creation of the Maritime Mail Service between Spain and its West Indies. These efforts aimed to improve overseas postal services, facilitating the flow of trade between Spain and America and thus promoting the economic development of the Hispanic empire. Through these initiatives, it becomes evident that the Crown, along with high-ranking government officials and enlightened figures, recognized the postal system as an essential means for the progress of imperial states.

Report of a fake stamp on the market supposedly issued by the Cuban Republic at arms. The rationale for labeling the stamp a "fake" in the report of its finding is the misspelling "Cuba Libra" instead of "Cuba Libre" of the inscription at the bottom of the stamp. The error is attributed to someone that didn't understand Spanish. However, the assumption that the stamp is a fake based on the misspelling proved to be incorrect. The stamps were ordered printed in the United States by Cuban war of independence revolutionaries in exile and the printer simply misspelled the word "Libre".

"Chronicle: Cuba"

Author of the "Chronicle" column in MP was Joseph Holmes.

MP, Vol.10, No.17, 31 Dec 1898, pp.157-158.

Report that the postage stamps for temporary use in Cuba will be on sale in a few days consisting of U.S. stamps of denominations 1c, 2c, 5c, and 10c surcharged for use in Cuba in denominations of 1c, 2 1/2c, 5c, and 10c (Cuba Scott 221, 223, 225, and 226). Also discussion of the designs under consideration for Cuban stamps for permanent use (eventual Cuba Scott 227, 228, 230, and 231). No mention of a 3c stamp is made in either set. Finally, the article mentions that the postage rate for a letter in Cuba will be kept at 5c per half ounce. See articles by Bartels on the same subject: <BART89812a> and <BART89812b>).

"Washington Notes"

Author of the "Washington Notes" column in MP was J. M. Bartels.

MP, Vol.10, No.19, 14 Jan 1899, p.171. Also listed as <BART89901a>.

These notes consist of three sections: The first section mentions that the new Cuban stamps (Scott 221-226) are "the all-absorbing topic of the day" and continues to discuss various aspects of the issue. The second section indicates that the rates of postage in Cuba were changed in October 1897 by the government of Spain and are to be maintained in force, and lists those rates. The piece also mentions that the current U.S. postal cards are going to be surcharged for use in Cuba similarly to the way the U.S. postage stamps were surcharged for use in Cuba and indicates that this printing is going to be done by the U.S. Government Printing Office. The third section reports that ""We have heard of three philatelists who have left for Cuba during the past week...". The news item does not clearly state why the three philatelists are traveling to Cuba. The implication is that they are hoping to thus obtain some of the newly issued stamps and plate number strips or blocks. The item continues to mention that the plate numbers of the new Cuban stamps (Scott 221-226) are in great demand and requests assistance from dealers in reporting the plate numbers that they have on hand.

Report of a 2c stamp that was "surcharged" with a "T" in a circle for postage due. The article inquires whether this was a forerunner of an unpaid set (postage due set) or a strike of the postage due "T" on the envelope that accidentally hit the stamp giving it the appearance of a surcharge. The real answer is that the 2c stamp was probably placed on the envelope and purposely hit with the postage due "T" to use the 2c stamp as a postage due stamp; it was definitely not a surcharged stamp.

The study provides background and overall information about the first issue of stamps prepared by Spain for use in its overseas colonies of Cuba, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines. The study describes the three plate settings used to print these stamps over their period of use from 1855 to 1863, and identifies the positions of the "CORRFOS" varieties of the word "CORREOS" as they migrated from one setting of the next. The "CORRFOS" variety resulted from a missing or poor impression of the lower bar of the E in "CORREOS".

“The Unknown Markings in the Reengraved Stamp Issue of 1905.”

JCP, Vol.12, No.22, Issue No.44, Apr-Jun 2021, pp.24-36 (13), ill., Span. & Eng. Also listed as <JCP2104>.

Reprint of the original article published in the May-August 1974 issue of Filatelía Cubana (see <FCb7405> = <MPC7405>) by the Cuban Postal Museum. The English translation of the article was originally published in the January 1975 issue of the SPA Journal (see <SPAJ7501>).

The article describes the secret markings added to the designs of the set of stamps issued for use in Cuba by the United States military government in 1899 (Scott 227-231, E2) when they were reprinted for the Republic of Cuba in 1905 (Scott 233-237, E3) so that they could be differentiated from the earlier issue.

"Una cubierta fuera de serie" ("An Exceptional Cover")

Report of a first flight cover from Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, cancelled on 28 Nov 1927, four days before the previously recognized date for said first flight covers. Additionally, the author claims that the express mail stamp on the cover is of the variety Scott E-3a, reading "E EXPRESO" instead of "EXPRESO", a fact that cannot be observed in the image of the cover. A higher resolution image of the stamp in question showing the error more clearly should have been provided.

Article describing the required use of the 1/2 cent orange Victory stamp (Scott RA5) on all correspondence as a special tax in support of the Cuban Red Cross during the Second World effective on 1 July 1942. The stamp was later replaced by an identical gray stamp (Scott RA6) effective 3 October 1944. The requirement to use the gray stamp was eliminated a few days later effective on October 27. The remnants of the supply of gray stamps was subsequently allowed to pay regular postage in full cents (two 1/2 cent gray stamps at a time).

"Scars on the Forehead" "Heridas en la Frente"

CPa, Vol. 25, No.74, May-Aug 2015, pp.13-14, ill., Eng. & Span.

Article reporting about two rare defects appearing on the 2c. Máximo Gómez stamps Scott 240/Edifil 206 unwatermarked stamps of 1917, consisting of scratches on the forehead of the Cuban patriot. However, on the second paragraph of the article, the author states that since 63 different plates were used to print the watermarked stamps of this issue, stamps showing the defect should not be so hard to find—a statement that contradicts the information in the first paragraph of the article. Furthermore, the author reports that he has found in his collection another 2c. Máximo Gómez stamp with a different scratch on the forehead of the Cuban patriot, and goes on to say that he confirmed that the stamp with the new defect was on an "unwatermarked stamp of 1925 and not on the 1917 stamp", an observation which is incorrect since the unwatermarked stamps were all from the 1917 issue (this stamp which the author illustrates in Figure 2 is Edifil 206e; the stamp in Figure 1 is not cataloged by Edifil). Additionally, the journal's editor adds a note at the end of the article illustrated with an Edifil 206e stamp at the center from his collection and repeats the statement of the author that due to the number of these stamps that were printed, the error must have occurred at the end of the series of printings. Evidently the journal's editor did an awfully poor job of reviewing and correcting the errors in the article before printing it and additionally cut off the bottom part of the English version of his editor's note with the picture of a friend that has nothing to do with Cuban philately.

The stamps were called "Victory Stamps" because of their simple design of a big letter "V" with the word "Victoria" at the bottom. Overview of the starting of use of machine cancellers imported from the U.S. during the American Intervention of Cuba following the Spanish-American War. The first one brought to Cuba was from the Hampden Cancelling Machine Company that is only known used in Cuban correspondence from September 30 to October 30, 1899. The article goes on to describe evolution of the use of duplex machine cancellations in Cuba during the first half of the 20th Century up to 1958. “El ‘Misterio’ de Sobre del Capitolio”

CPa, Vol. 34, No.101, May-Aug 2024, pp.8-10, ill., Eng. & Span.

[The English title should have said “Capitol Building” instead of “Capital Building”]

The article explains how the three Internatinal Machine Co. cancellations were achieved on the cover of Capitol Building stamps (Scott 294-298) shown in the article. The author determines that the only possible way of obtaining the three cancellations on the cover is by running it through the cancelling machine three times: the first time unfolded in the regular manner in which all covers are fed through the machine, the second time folded vertically through the middle of the four top stamps, and the third time folded horizontally between the top row of stamps and the single stamp on the second row. A correct deduction that would have required the cooperation of the post office clerck operating the cancelling machine.

Paris, France: By the author, 1950 Edition, 459 pp.; Cuba on pp.179-181, no illustrations in the Cuba section, in French; priced in French francs. Reprinted by FISA (Fédération Internationale des Sociétés de Aérophilatelie).

The catalog lists first flight covers numbered sequentially in chronological order; the Cuba listings comprise numbers from 1 to 141. The sequential numbers are followed by the year date and the days of departure and arrival (when different) separated by a dash and followed by a period and the month number. These are followed by the city of departure and arrival separated by a dash with the latter followed by a comma and the country of destination if not Cuba. Whenever known, airline carriers, pilots, and special cachets or cancellations are identified as well as the number of covers flown. The presentation is rather cryptic and requires a detailed reading of the key to the listings to be able to decipher the full content of the listings. Finally, note that the first flights

Report of the appearance of the surcharged stamps Scott J1-J4 in Cuba. Also report of an elliptical handstamp found on periodicals that reads in three lines "Correos / Porte Pagado / Habana". We note that the word "Pagado" is misspelled in the article as "Pacado".

Advertisement for the sale of "cancelled" Cuban stamps, claiming that the U.S. embargo against trade with Cuba does not apply to cancelled stamps, only mint stamps. The statement is questionable since all of the cancelled stamps shown in the article are "cancelled to order" by the Cuban government and are basically the same as mint stamps, so that the embargo should still apply to them.
